HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

TRY A LITTLE KINDNESS

Dear Helen: We're newlyweds and we live in one of those thin-walled apartments. There's an elderly lady next door who never has company. She seems sweet and normal, but Helen, she talks to herself. We can hear her talking when we know she's all alone.

Do you think she needs help?—NEW AT APARTMENT LIVING
Dear Helen: She needs friendship! Why don't you pop in and visit her once a week, so that she'll have someone other than herself to chat with? And read below for a logical explanation — (It MAY make you cry):

Dear Helen: About people who talk to themselves.

Many of us who are elderly talk to "us" because our voices will go dead if not used. Some of us speak to no other living body for two or three days at a time.

Many all-alone people keep a cat, dog or parakeet to talk to. I talk back to the radio, TV or you, Helen, when I read your column. I also say my thoughts out loud, just for company.

Why? When the phone finally DOES ring, I know I won't croak. Even so, I let it ring three times, enunciating, I'm coming, hello, hello" before I lift the receiver. When the doorbell DOES ring, I call, I'm coming, I'll be right there" to exercise my voice so that I can assure a pleasant "Good afternoon" instead of a strangled cough.

This isn't senile — it's just good common sense. — MRS. H.C., WIDOWED

Dear Helen: Please print this because it is the only way I can tell my friends what is wrong with them. I've changed it enough so my letter could apply to almost anyone in the same situation, but I hope these girls will take it to heart.

They are two girls with great personalities. They're terrific dancers and have good faces and figures. But they hide their really nice faces under so much make-up you don't think of them as "real." Especially eye make-up! It makes them look hard when they aren't. Also weird, which they also aren't.

Many other friends and I have tried to drop hints but they ignore us. One of the girls is having trouble at school and at dances because she is constantly bothered by the wild guys. She can't understand why!

Would you please tell all girls that too much goop on your face

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Just as the networks hire former athletes to cover sporting events, CBS got retired astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. to interpret the Apollo 11 flight.

At the launch and during Thursday night's live transmission from the Apollo, Schirra translated the space jargon into everyday language.

He also was able to convey in large measure what it's like to be up in that spaceship. He will offer his interpretations and perhaps relate personal experiences during the 31-hour coverage of the moon landing Sunday and Monday.

Schirra, 46, was the only astronaut to fly in all three programs, Mercury, Gemini and Apollo. He retired from the Navy as a captain June 30, and signed on with CBS as a special consultant for four Apollo moon flights.

As commander of the first television flight, Apollo 7, last October, Schirra earned the contradictory reputation of being somewhat cantankerous about television and of being the funniest man in orbit. His handwritten cue card read: "Keep those cards and letters coming folks."

makes you look cheap and bad? G— A FRIEND WHO CARES
Dear Friend: You've already told them. And thanks.

These friends evidently haven't heard that the natural look is the ONLY look these days. — H.

Dear Helen: You often ask for new slang. Here's one for you: If a girl gets pregnant, she's said to have the "Egyptian Flu," because she's going to be a "mummy." — GRIN AND SHARE IT

Dear Grin: Groan-n-n!!! — H.

HEAR THESE WORDS

Worship In Church Every Week

Is It Clear to YOU?

Do you find it hard to read?

Is its language too out of date? Have you imagined it contradicts its self?

Are you of the opinion God's love for us is a paradox?

Do you think if God really loved us He would let us be sick, experience pain and suffer death? Is the Bible actually hard for you to understand? If your answer is "yes," then you should enroll in Sunday School, start going to church regularly and join the band of honest, serious seekers after God's own will in your life; the true interpretation of His word. To the believer the Bible makes sense, it is easy to understand and in it there are no contradictions.

It is really the Book of Life.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs
the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us
support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Pour Your Contributions Of Wealth and Service Into The Program Of Your Church. Here They Will Help Create Lasting Benefits For All Mankind.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899—Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880—Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883—Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883—Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884—Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folson the last-named dying in 1916.

1916—Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
—but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926—Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927—Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929—C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957—Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969—With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president —balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

When today's hand was played in a New York tournament, every South player wound up as declarer at a four-spade contract and every West opened the jack of clubs. A couple of East players let that card ride, whereupon South would take his singleton queen and wind up making an overtrick.
The other East players were smarter. They looked over dummy carefully and saw that there was no future in that line of play. Then they went up with the ace

Braves Clip Padres in Double Bill

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Gonzalez has been a blue chip bargain for Atlanta since June 13. Now the Braves' fans are cashing in too.

Gonzalez, acquired from San Diego just before the trade deadline last month for reserve catcher Walt Hrinlak and two minor leaguers, hit two home runs—one of them a grand slam—Friday night as the Braves swept a doubleheader from the Padres 6-2 and 6-3.

The outfielder's sixth and seventh homers—he has hit five since joining the Braves—helped them climb within three percentage points of Los Angeles' National League West Division leaders, who edged San Francisco 3-2.

His bases-loaded blast, which capped a six-run Atlanta burst in the fourth inning of the opener, also put $28,600 in the pocket book of Mrs. Estelle Hale of Statham, Ga.

Gonzalez went to bat in the inning representing Mrs. Hale, whose name was drawn in a Home Run For The Money promotion conducted by the Braves' broadcasters. A homer was worth $3,600—with a $25,000 bonus for a grand slam.

Elsewhere in the NL, the New York Mets topped Montreal 5-2 despite the loss of hitting star Cleon Jones after a fifth-inning brawl, the Chicago Cubs mauled Philadelphia 9-5, Pittsburgh trounced St. Louis 4-1 and Houston downed Cincinnati 7-4.

In American League games, Boston whipped Baltimore 6-1, Detroit blanked Cleveland 4-0, Oakland beat California 6-3, the New York Yankees beat Washington 5-0, the Chicago White Sox clipped Kansas City 6-1 and Seattle swept a doubleheader with Minnesota, 2-1, 3-2.

The Braves trailed San Diego 2-0 in the opener when Orlando Cepeda launched the fourth with a double. A walk, a ground out and Bob Didier's two-run single knotted the game. Singles by pitcher Ron Reed and Felipe Alou then filled the bases, setting the stage for Gonzalez' second career slam.

In the second game, Gonzalez' two-run shot keyed a three-run Atlanta rally in the fourth inning. Larry Stahl's second homer of the doubleheader pulled the Padres even 3-3 in the sixth but the Braves broke through with three in the eighth, Felix Millan's single knocking in the go-ahead run.

"That was a helluva trade we made with San Diego when we got Gonzalez," said Braves Manager Luman Harris. "It's been a great deal for us. Tony is hitting the ball and doing a good job for us in the outfield."

"The trade was a great thing for me," said the 5-foot-9 veteran, selected by the Padres in last year's expansion draft. "I got off to a slow start at San Diego, 1-for-27, and I might still be in a slump if I was there."

"Now I'm on a pennant contender—the last time I was, was in 1964 when I was with the Phillies and we lost our chance at the end of the season."

"It's great I have another chance to help win a pennant."

The Dodgers clung to the top spot in the West as right-hander Bill Singer, 13-7, subdued San Francisco with last-out help from Jim Brewer.

Wes Parker's two-run triple off Mike McCormick in the first inning and a run-scoring single by Maury Wills in the second offset Jim Hart's two-run pinch homer in the Giants' seventh.

The loss dropped San Francisco two games behind the Braves and Dodgers.

Jones, who took a .346 batting average into the Mets' game at Montreal, slugged Expos catcher Ron Brand after being thrown out at the plate in the fifth, when New York scored twice for a 3-2 lead.

After the ensuing melee, which drew players from both benches into a shoving, punching exchange, Jones was ejected from the game.

Jerry Grote's two-run homer in the eighth assured the victory for southpaw Jerry Koosman and kept the second-place Mets 3½ games behind Chicago's East Division front-runners.

Ernie Banks socked a three-run homer in the first inning at Philadelphia, then singled home the tie-breaking run in the sev-

McLain Back in Form as Tigers Win

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

As long as Denny McLain throws with his right arm, not his left, he still looks like a 30-game winner... well, almost 30.

McLain has had his problems with his left arm—a circulatory problem caused him to miss his last starting assignment—but he still is winning games for Detroit with the sturdy right arm that piled up 31 triumphs last season.

Returning to the mound Friday night, McLain pitched the Tigers to a 4-0 victory over Cleveland, spacing seven hits and walking no one to raise his record to 14-5.

He still is off his remarkable winning pace of 1968, but at the rate he is going he would win about 25 games this year. Not bad for a guy many called a flash-in-the-pan last year.

However, the second-place Tigers still remain 13 games behind Baltimore in the American League East, despite the Orioles' 6-1 loss to Boston.

In the West, Oakland picked up 1½ games on Minnesota with a 6-3 victory over California while the Twins lost a two-night doubleheader to Seattle 2-1 and 3-2, ending the Pilots' eight-game spin and the Twins' nine-game winning streak.

In other games, the New York Yankees stopped Washington 5-0 behind Fritz Peterson and the Chicago White Sox beat Kansas City 6-1 on Tommy John's pitching.

In the National League, Atlanta swept San Diego 6-2 and 6-3, Los Angeles edged San Francisco 3-2, the Chicago Cubs overcame Philadelphia 9-5, the New York Mets defeated Montreal 5-2, Pittsburgh tripped St. Louis 4-1 and Houston upended Cincinnati 7-4.

McLain, who won No. 14 on June 29 last season and had 18 victories by this time, allowed only one runner past first base against Cleveland—Tony Horton doubled with two out in the ninth inning. Cleveland was not even helped when the umpires forced McLain to cut off the sleeves of his undershirt in the fifth inning because the Indians claimed they were distracting.

The best that Cleveland could have hoped for, other than right shoulder trouble for McLain, was that he wouldn't show at all—and he almost didn't.

The pilot-pitcher didn't arrive at the park until 30 minutes before game time after minor engine trouble over Lake Erie forced him to turn back and get another plane.

McLain also squeezed home a run in the seventh inning, but the big blows off Luis Tiant, 8-11, were Bill Freehan's 12th homer leading off the fifth for Detroit's first hit and Willie Horton's two-run shot, his 12th, in the eighth.

Horton also tied a league record for an outfielder with 11 putouts.

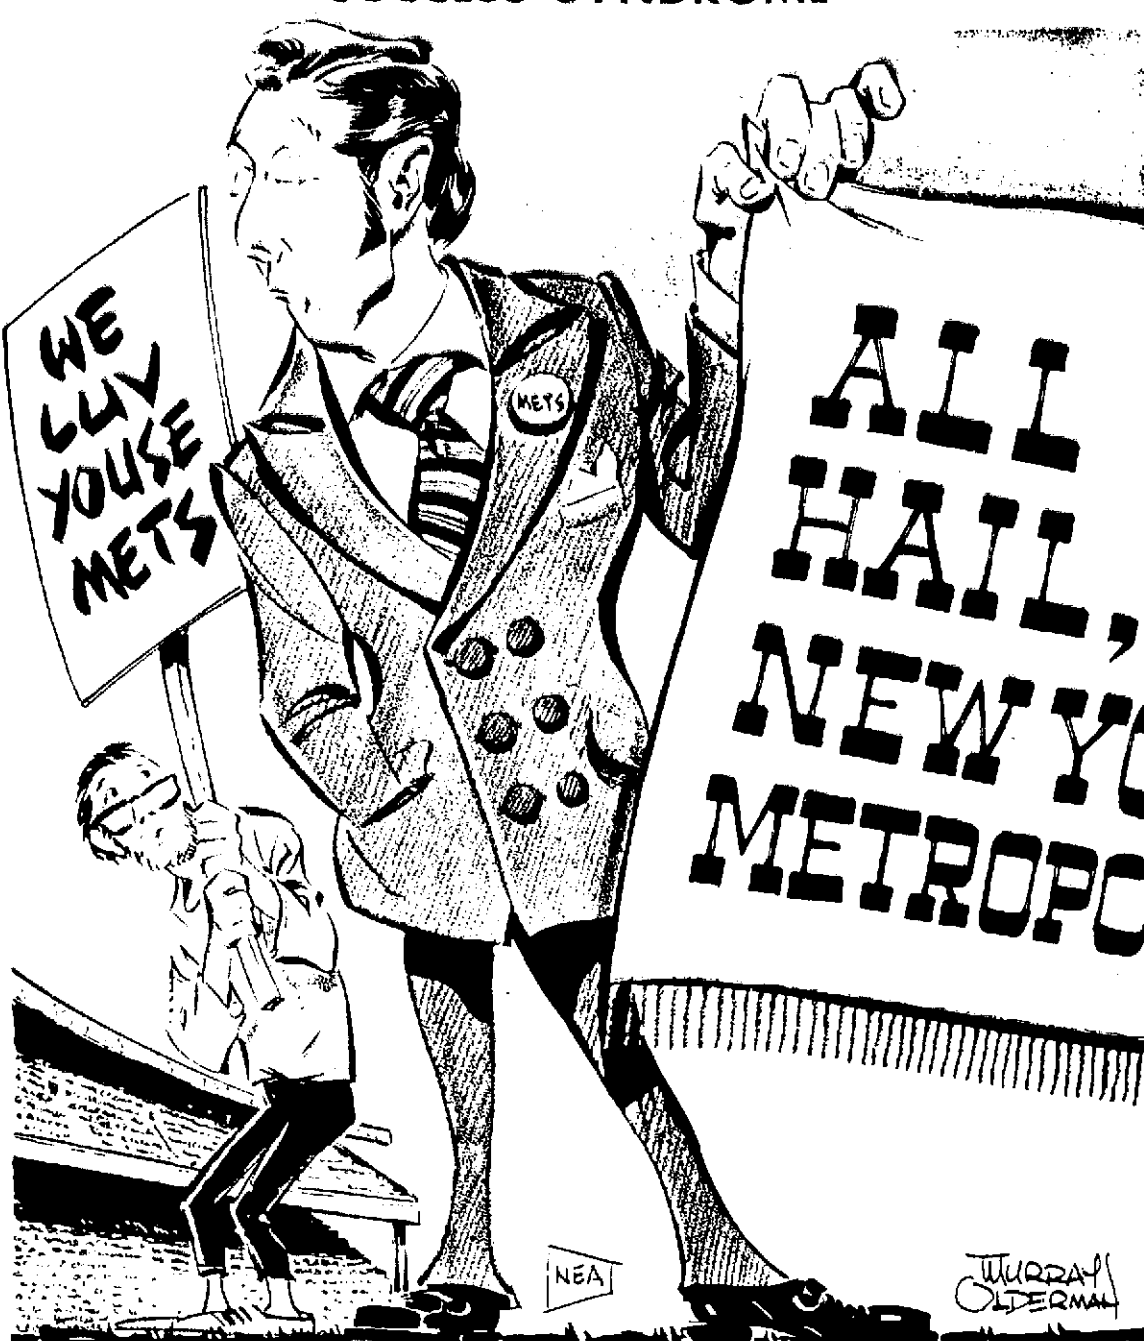

Ray Jarvis, a 23-year-old rookie with nothing like McLain's past, also made his first appearance in a week because of military duty and hurled Boston by Baltimore with a six-hitter to even his record at 5-5. He also singled in his first major league run and hit a sacrifice fly.

The only run off him came on Don Buford's apparent home run in the eighth, but Baltimore was deprived of another run on the blast when Buford passed Dave May on the bases. May, who had held up to see if the ball would be caught, was allowed to score, but Buford was called out.

Oakland, behind 3-1 in the eighth, scored four unearned runs as Jose Tartabull singled in two runs and Ted Kubiak singled in another, while a fourth scored on a throwing error on Kubiak's hit.

Ron Perranoski walked Steve Hovley with two out in the ninth inning to force in the winning run. In Seattle's first victory, Hovley homered with one on and winner Fred Talbot.

SUCCESS SYNDROME

'Pitching Injuries Are Dismissed Too Easily'

By MARTY RALBOVSKY, NEA Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (NEA) On the day Jim Palmer was placed on the disabled list with a sore back, the rest of the Baltimore Orioles decided to send him off with, of all things, a clubhouse prank.

They emptied his locker at Memorial Stadium, piled the contents into a shopping cart and wheeled it into the training room, which they say is Jim Palmer's favorite hang-out. Then they hung a sign on the door, which said, "Palmer's Room."

So, on the surface, did Palmer. He fished his belongings out of the cart, then headed out of the stadium and into the Baltimore traffic, the nose of his Bonneville pointed in the direction of suburban Timonium, Md. But by the time he reached 2106 Suburban Greens Drive and pulled into the driveway, the incident had lost its humor. Jim Palmer, by now, was irritated.

"This is a loose club and practical jokes are common," he said. "But there was an underlying thought in that training room bit. I know there are some guys on this team who feel I exaggerate things, that I'm really not as hurt as I let on. They actually feel I'm not putting out like I should. They don't come right out and say it, but I know the feeling is there and, sure, it bothers me."

"And that's the one thing about baseball people, not only on this club but everywhere, that amazes me. They are so insensitive to the physical problems of pitchers. Pitchers have to do things that outfielders don't, that infielders don't, and that catchers don't. We put more strain on our bodies than anybody, so why shouldn't we hurt more? I just can't figure out why some people dismiss pitching injuries so easily."

"Front office people are tough to convince too. This season I hurt my back in the third game, but really didn't think anything of it. I started getting pains on one side of my back, then on the other. Finally the pain settled in the middle of my back. That's when I told the club. The first thing the front office told me was to have X-rays taken."

"When I had the X-rays taken, nothing showed up. The Orioles called the doctor and he told them the results were negative. So right away the club thinks there's nothing wrong with me. But the pain is still there. I wish I had calcium deposits, or something, just so they'd show up on the X-rays. If the pictures don't show something wrong, it makes the whole situation even more embarrassing."

Palmer's physical problems first developed early in the 1967 season when he injured his right shoulder. He spent the remainder of that season on and off disabled lists and, last year, he bounced around the minors from Miami to Rochester to Elmira, N.Y., accomplishing little. In desperation, he reported to the Orioles' Instructional League team for rookies in Clearwater, Fla., last fall and still, he says, he couldn't get anybody out. "When I left Clearwater, I figured it was all over. I thought I was through for good, the shoulder was hurting so bad."

"I went back to Baltimore and the club suggested I go to Puerto Rico and play winter ball on the team Frank Robinson was managing. I wasn't too hot on the idea, but I went along anyway. Just before I left, I ran into Wally Bunker, who has had a lot of arm troubles too. He told me about an anti-inflammatory pill, the kind they use for arthritis. He said the pills worked for him."

"So I took one right away, and when I got to Puerto Rico three days later, I took another one. Suddenly my shoulder didn't hurt anymore. I can't explain it. It was like voodoo. I took only three pills altogether and haven't taken one since I left Puerto Rico. I wound up with a 6-1 record down there, and my shoulder felt great."

When spring training started, Palmer won back his job in the starting rotation and compiled a 9-2 record with four shutouts before the back problems developed. Now, he says, he's facing still another comeback. "If things work out, I figure I can get back in the regular rotation sometime after the all-star break or maybe around the first of August."

Tight Squeeze

Ira Berkow
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In the clubhouse, there is, other than some new faces, little outward difference between the St. Louis Cardinals of 1968 and the St. Louis Cardinals of this season. Tim McCarver needles Bob Gibson. Lou Brock throws spitballs at Curt Flood, then ducks behind a corner and Flood keeps looking and seeing nothing. There is still joy in the clubhouse, though some might call it gallows humor.

On the field, the usually fleet Vada Pinson gets thrown out at home, standing up, while trying to score on Joe Torre's long double. (Pinson is still recovering from a fractured leg.) A pop-up foul behind home plate: catcher McCarver loses it, sights it, nestles under it, and pitcher Bob Gibson rams into him. Ball falls. Error on Gibson. The next two runs are unearned.

Two examples of how the Cardinals, defending National League champions, have managed all season to stay nearly 10 games behind the league-leading Chicago Cubs.

"This is not a loose club," said outfielder Brock. "Oh, we joke in the clubhouse as much as ever, but we're pressing on the field. It's not as bad as it was earlier in the season, but snapping out of it is a gradual process."

"We've put the pressure on ourselves. When one guy isn't going well, another guy thinks he has to pick up that load along with his own. Then that second guy starts pressing. It's contagious."

"In the last two years, years we won the pennant, the breaks would almost always go our way. You know, an athlete lives for that one crucial moment in a game when it's do or die. This year we have been dying instead of doing."

"There are two kinds of ballplayers: ones with smiles on their faces, and ones with headaches. Right now, we're the ones with headaches."

Brock, for one, is gradually emerging from hard times in the early months. There had been a struggle to get over the .200 mark in batting, but he has been climbing recently. He hit .279 last season. The bullpen has been, other than Joe Hoerner, very unreliable. Pinson, who came in a trade with Cincinnati to bolster the loss of retired Roger Maris, was out 30 days with that broken leg. And Ray Washburn, 14-8 last season, was 2-7 by the middle of June and was dropped from the starting rotation.

These are just some of the problems, along with leaving runners stranded, and line drives that once found holes now find gloves. This despite the helpful additions of Torre, Mucut Grant, Dave Giusti, Vic Davalillo.

"We're disappointed in ourselves," said outfielder Flood, "but we aren't despairing. After all, the season is not even half over. There's some 90 games left. We still feel we will win the pennant."

Before the season began, there had been discussion about the Cardinals becoming complacent. Twenty-five players were paid over $1 million in salaries, a major league record.

"People said we would become 'fat cats,'" said McCarver. "That's ridiculous. They said the same thing after the 1967 season, and we repeated as champs in 1968."

"But the more money you make, the more you want. One difference, though, is that when you're in first place, you play one game at a time. Now, we think, 'Let's see, we're 10 games behind. We have to win so many and the Cubs and Pirates and Mets—are all playing terrific ball—have to lose so many, and...' Maybe we're thinking too much."

Manager Red Schoendienst said, "Nothing seemed to work for us earlier in the year. But I see signs of things changing. But the big difference in the standings has been the way the Cubs have been playing—they've been 20, 25 games over .500."

"Last year on May 22, we were one game over .500 and only two games out of first. On May 22 this year we were one game under .500 and nine games out."

"But the season is still young."

Looking Ahead

Though the end of the decade is less than seven months away, we won't have time to catch our breath before rushing into the even more hectic 1970's. Looking ahead, the magazine U.S. News & World Report has made these predictions:

Incomes will leap, with a family making $9,000 a year today bringing in $15,500 by 1979; within the same span, population will increase 22 million, to at least 225 million; about 35 million more cars, trucks and busses will be added to the traffic jam, yet big advances in rapid transit are envisioned, and air pollution will be reduced as efficient electric power replaces the internal-combustion engine; by the end of the decade total production of goods and services will climb 100 per cent to nearly $2 trillion; and most surprisingly, government spending will move much slower, with reductions expected in such areas as defense.

Naturally, we'll be paying more, but there will also be 32 per cent more to spend; and there will still be an "urban crisis," but most cities will have replaced slums, and training and education of the underprivileged will have been increased. Even Vietnam is supposed to end.

So we look forward to New Year's, but we must still live one day at a time, as Congress does. Of course, if anybody wants to give us 32 per cent more to spend right now, we think we could be more appreciative of the future. — Savannah (Ga.) Morning News.

Buyers Relieved

Officials who made a survey of effects of a state law report that the new federal "truth in lending law" which requires of the detailed statement of all credit charges in terms of an interest rate will have little effect. People will look at the charges, gulp, and go right on buying, they said.

As a matter of fact, all of the fuss and furor created by self-appointed protectors of the consumer probably caused buyers to think the charges were actually higher. Full revelation will cause signs of relief, and a check of the budget to see whether there is room for another installment payment. — Greenville (S.C.) News

A Different Kind Of Vacation

A young Wichita Falls minister who also holds a full-time job in the business world returned recently from a two-week vacation he called "refreshing." He drove a combine in the wheat fields. Not exactly what a farm hand would call either a vacation or refreshing.

But the youthful Wichitan explained that his vacation was rejuvenating because it was a period diametrically different from his normal workday life. "It was a different world," as he explained it.

Which might be a useful tip to those contemplating a vacation this summer. Why not consider something different this year? Something you've never done before? The young minister's vacation was profitable and refreshing because it was a "different world." — Wichita Falls (Tex.) Record News

Rowboat Crosses Atlantic

MIAMI (AP) — British voyager John Fairfax paddled his 35, shoe-shaped rowboat up the Gulf Stream toward a possible end of his transatlantic crossing today.

The Coast Guard said after one of its planes flew over Fairfax Thursday that if prevailing winds and currents held steady he would probably make a landfall in the Miami or Fort Lauderdale area.

Fairfax, a 31-year-old bachelor who set out in the 24-foot Britannia to become the first man to row the Atlantic, was 120 miles south of Miami when spotted.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB, one man in two tubs. If you should see such a hulk sailing by, don't call the Coast Guard; it's probably just an entry in a local bathtub race, the nation's latest fad. The catamaran-style "boat" actually is two one-piece fiberglass bathtubs powered by a five-horsepower outboard motor.

SPECIAL DELIVERY of a very important item. A Marine helicopter returns a 105mm howitzer to its mountain-top fire support base in the northern reaches of Vietnam after its repair in Dong Ha. 'Did I Do the Best I Could?' Asks One Who Built Apollo 11

By LISA CRONIN
AP Business Writer
ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N.Y. (AP) — Bill Rooney, a workman who soldered pipes on the Apollo 11 lunar lander, is sure the moon landing will be a success. But he adds: "If something should go wrong, I'll worry that it was something I did. Could I have done it better?"

Rooney was one of 6,000 workers at Grumman Aerospace Corp. who built the LM, the lunar module that is to land two astronauts on the moon.

His work was checked and rechecked by Grumman and space officials at the firm's Bethpage, Long Island, plant and at Cape Kennedy, Fla., before the launch. But, like most people connected with the moon shot, he worries.

He is a tall, big-boned man of 35, whose craggy face reflects years of hard work. Until a few months ago, work on the LM kept him overtime. He often worked seven days a week.

The overtime money alone wasn't worth it—not seeing your family until the kids are asleep, not having a normal social life," said Rooney, who makes about $200 a week in base pay. "Except, of course, it was the moon shot."

And Bill Rooney is convinced the moon shot is worth it.

"It shows we Americans can get together and produce the best thing in the world," he said.

"President Kennedy asked for a man on the moon in this de-ade and he's getting it. I still remember when he made that speech—it sounded fantastic.

"And we even have time to send two rockets up by 1970—we beat the schedule," he smiled. "It's a shame Kennedy can't be here to see it."

Rooney learned his trade as a mechanic in the Air National Guard, on B26 bombers, F86 fighters, DC119 cargo planes and C47 strato-cruisers.

But he says working on the LM is different. There are no models and the specifications keep changing. The only way to learn is to do it.

"You work on that thing so long, it seems like a monster," he said. "But you work a little longer and it's a beautiful thing. You should have been at Grumman Wednesday when it went off. We had television in the workroom and you should have heard the cheering when the bird went up. Beautiful!"

But for Bill Rooney, the real importance of the moon mission will be its effect on his three young children, Isabel, Mike and Billy.

"You know, my kids say, 'Daddy built that thing—he built the moon rocket,'" Rooney said. "I tell them, 'Yes, Daddy built the rocket, but he built it with his hands, and there are men who built it with their heads, on paper.'"

"You have to go to college to build on paper," he continued, "and I tell my kids they should go to college."

May Take TV Camera Into Land Craft

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — If they can string the cable that far, the Apollo 11 astronauts will take their television camera tonight when they float into the bug-like craft that will deposit them on the moon.

The quiet threesome of the astronaut corps apparently is trying to make a picture substitute for a thousand words.

It may have been coincidence, but after newsmen mildly complained that Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. weren't giving them many quotes, the astronauts loosened up a bit on the first live telecast Thursday night.

"We have no intention of competing with the professionals, believe me," said Collins when a ground communicator asked whether he was reading from cue cards.

"I'd have put on a coat and tie if I'd known about this ahead of time," Collins said.

Today's transmission is scheduled to begin at 7:32 p.m. EDT, but because the checkout of the lunar module is to start at 5:47 p.m., the telecast might begin earlier.

"We checked the cable lengths," Armstrong told mission control. "We're thinking we might want to see if we can take the TV into the LM with us tomorrow for part of the time." Mission control said that would be fine.

The lunar module is attached to the narrow end of the conical mother ship and the astronauts enter it through a tunnel.

From 150,000 miles out, illuminated by flashlight in the dimness of their cabin, the astronauts beamed to the world two vignettes that symbolize their voyage of discovery.

One was the American flag on Armstrong's left sleeve.

The other was their suit patch—an eagle hovering over the cratered moon, talons clenching on olive branch; the earth now small and far back.

"It's pretty hard to see the olive branch," said Collins. "That's what he has in his talons—an olive branch."

There was none of the clowning and in-jokes that characterized telecasts on previous Apollo missions. But the picture quality was the best ever—with closeups that showed even the small, flashing numbers on the instrument panel.

Aldrin did pushups rightside up, upside down and sideways in the capsule. In an earlier 52-minute test of the TV camera that reached only the Goldstone Tracking Station in California, all three astronauts exercised because they were curious as to how it would increase their heart rates.

When newsmen pressed Flight Director Clifford Charlesworth to get the astronauts to talk more, he said, "They're just a quiet crew. I certainly wouldn't want to backseat drive for them."

Somebody wondered what a quiet man like Armstrong might say when he makes his historic foot print this weekend.

"I would expect, said Charlesworth, "he'll call Houston and say that he's landed."

Apollo 11 Reaches Lunar Orbit

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The explorers of Apollo 11 bore down on the moon today, ready to blast themselves into lunar orbit to begin two days of great human adventure. Neil A. Armstrong, Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins headed for a climactic moment in early afternoon when they trigger their spaceship engine to steer into a precise orbit.

The firing was scheduled for 126 p.m. EDT when the astronauts are behind the moon, out of radio contact. The world will not know whether the engine ignited properly until the craft reappears around the edge of the moon 26 minutes later.

The astronauts have the option to cancel the ignition if they detect anything wrong. If it does not fire, Apollo 11 would merely swing once around the backside and head back to earth—one of the built-in safety measures of the mission.

The Soviet Union assured the United States Friday that its unmanned Luna 15 satellite would not interfere with Apollo 11's mission. The Russians said Luna was following an entirely different path around the moon than that planned for the astronauts.

The Russians also indicated in a cable to astronaut Frank Borman at Houston, who requested the information, that Luna 15 might be gone today, either landing on the surface or rocketing back toward earth.

As their date with destiny neared, Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins were firmly in the grip of lunar gravity. They zipped into the moon's sphere of influence just before midnight Friday when they were 43,495 miles from their target and 214,402 miles from home.

After a day in orbit, Armstrong and Aldrin Sunday are to detach a lunar landing ship, the fragile craft they call Eagle, and fly it down to the moon's Sea of Tranquility, near a crater named Moltke.

If all goes according to plan, Armstrong will descend a nine-rung ladder to the surface at 2:21 a.m. Monday. He will be followed 20 minutes later by Aldrin. Together they will fulfill an ageless dream by exploring this desolate world which has fascinated man from the beginning of time.

For 2½ hours they will collect precious bits of this alien world, plant scientific instruments, and determine their ability to operate in the unfamiliar one-sixth gravity.

Cuba Will Welcome Red Fleet

Havana (AP) — The Cuban

government is preparing a massive welcome for the Soviet naval squadron due in Havana harbor Sunday morning.

Thousands of Cubans are expected to line the seawall to greet the squadron, which will be the biggest show of Soviet muscle on this Communist island since the 1962 missile crisis.

The eight-ship squadron, including a guided missile cruiser and two submarines, will be the first Soviet naval force to visit Cuba.

Observers in the United States have said the dispatch of the ships to the island 90 miles from the U.S. coast was in reaction to President Nixon's plan to visit Communist Romania in Eastern Europe.

The draft legislation, it was reported, would treat both these kinds of transactions as loans rather than outright sales, greatly reducing the tax advantage.

The committee's decision whether to recommend cutting the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance is still to be reached.

But even some ardent defenders of incentives for the oil industry concede privately the depletion allowance is likely to be scaled down.

The tax reform push, if successfully held to schedule, would help the administration's effort to clear an extension of the 10 per cent income surtax through the Senate before the recess.

The Senate Finance Committee approved Thursday, with unexpected speed, the House-passed extension bill.

However, it could be sidetracked on the floor by the Democratic leadership, which has insisted extension be accomplished by major tax reform.

Population Explosion Poses Child-Health Care Problem in 1975

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

By 1975 it is estimated that our population will include 76 million children (no kiddin'). That's because we increase by one every 10½ seconds. No wonder the term "explosion" is used to describe this phenomenon.

It isn't hard to imagine numerous problems resulting, not the least of which is sufficient health-care personnel. Nearly everyone agrees that American pediatricians and other child-care physicians need other "team members" to help them in the job of delivering health care. Where can they turn for help?

Dr. Hershel Bentley, professor of pediatrics at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, suggested that "retired mothers" in the 30 to 50-year age group be recruited and trained to help in the job of delivering health care.

(The mere idea of a mother "retiring" at 30 years of age is hardly worth commenting on it is so laughable, but an expansion of the idea is more sensible. However, from here on we shall refer to "working mothers" instead of "retired mothers" even though all mothers work—and how!)

The ideal situation, of course, would be to have sufficient trained nurses to help pediatricians in this job, but everyone is aware of the nurse shortage. The immediate problem, which promises to have a rapid increase, means that we've got to recruit people who can be trained in a much shorter time.

Oil Industry Faces New Tax Squeeze

By EDMOND LEBRETON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has begun drafting tighter tax legislation for the oil industry, symbol to many of the special advantages embedded in the present Internal Revenue Code.

Pressing its drive to bring a comprehensive tax reform bill before the House before the Aug. 13 congressional recess, the committee reportedly has ordered a draft aimed at some presently-legal procedures that result in reduced taxes.

One of the currently legal procedures is a method of increasing a company's income in a single year so it can take full advantage of the 27½ depletion allowance, which is limited to one-half of income.

To do this, a company "carves out" a portion of its future production and sells this currently.

A different, so-called ABC transaction involves the sale of assets of one company to another subject to retrained future production payments. These, in turn, are sold to a third party, which can be a tax-exempt organization or a dummy corporation.

The effect is to reduce the income tax payable by the purchaser and enable the third party also to take a profit.

The draft legislation, it was reported, would treat both these kinds of transactions as loans rather than outright sales, greatly reducing the tax advantage.

The committee's decision whether to recommend cutting the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance is still to be reached.

But even some ardent defenders of incentives for the oil industry concede privately the depletion allowance is likely to be scaled down.

The tax reform push, if successfully held to schedule, would help the administration's effort to clear an extension of the 10 per cent income surtax through the Senate before the recess.

The Senate Finance Committee approved Thursday, with unexpected speed, the House-passed extension bill.

tor wants could be given 6 to 11 months of formal training under the joint direction of a college, a hospital, a nursing school, and a group of practicing pediatricians, followed by an "internship" in a pediatric office.

One physician suggested that such pediatric assistants would work so closely with practicing pediatricians that each doctor and his "team" could serve more patients better. This seems like a worthwhile goal.

On a similar subject with a local angle, the Hospital Auxiliary Volunteers were organized recently. Mrs. Ernest Latcham is the president, and anyone who would like to volunteer services of any sort at the hospital is asked to call her. Mrs. Latcham doesn't even stipulate that you be a retired mother.

Youngstown Plagued by Race Riots

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — With National Guardsmen helping police patrol the streets, only scattered incidents were reported Thursday night and early today after two nights of racial disturbances on the city's South Side.

There were 35 arrests, but 27 were for violation of the 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew ordered by Mayor Anthony B. Flak following Wednesday night's disorders.

Six persons were injured, but none seriously.

Police said a few firebombs were hurled at buildings in the largely Negro area, but no fires were started and only one case of looting was reported. There was no recurrence of the sniping firing that police said occurred Wednesday night.

Maj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso, head of the Ohio National Guard, said he would return to the Columbus today unless disorders broke out again. He indicated the 150 Guardsmen on duty here would be phased out gradually.

The disturbances erupted Tuesday night after about 100 young Negroes gathered at a neighborhood dairy store on the East Side which has been the target of demonstrations since a Negro woman complained that she was kicked by the white owner several weeks ago.

British Ask If Apollo Worth Cost

By FRANK ALLER

Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britons are wildly enthusiastic over the Apollo 11 mission to the moon but there is an underlying note of criticism similar to that in the United States.

The British press is giving extensive coverage of the moon flight, but some articles and cartoons question whether the cost is justified.

The Daily Mirror described the plight of 7,000 people at Cape Kennedy who are officially below the poverty line and said the moon adventure involved a "mammoth perversion of energy, thought and other human resources."

Bertrand Russell wrote in the Times: "For my part, I should wish to see a little more wisdom in the conduct of affairs on earth before we extend our strident and deadly disputes to other parts."

Lord Arran, columnist and television personality, called the moon shot "a bloody waste of time." He said, "The lives of three men—all of them husbands with families—are being gambled on this incredibly risky venture."

The Daily Mail ran a five-column cartoon showing two starving Biafran children looking plaintively at the moon. One wail says: "Maybe they'll discover it is made of cheese, and bring some back for us to eat."

The moonflight also provided a new springboard for attacks on U.S. foreign policy.

SAIGON (AP) — American troops killed 27 enemy soldiers but suffered no casualties in a four-hour battle near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said today.

The fight six miles northeast of the key provincial capital, which allied intelligence says may be the main target of a new enemy drive, was the only major disruption reported as the battlefield lull entered its fifth week.

The battle Friday involved troops of the 25th Infantry Division. Later, B52 bombers struck around Tay Ninh and at enemy positions at the base of Black Virgin Mountain.

South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, answering questions at a news conference, said he did not believe U.S. and South Vietnamese policymakers should read any political implications into the battlefield lull.

He said the Communists have decreased their battlefield activity many times, three or four times this year alone, but only to rest and re-equip their forces.

Thieu also said that a "very important part" of U.S. troops could be withdrawn from Vietnam only if sufficient U.S. equipment and funds are forthcoming. He also said he would do all he could so that South Vietnamese troops could "replace" American troops.

Thieu's opinion of the lull was in accord with the expressed views of most American commanders in Saigon. They believe the Communist command is girding for another "high point" in its sporadic summer campaigns.

After the news conference, Thieu met with Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff. Wheeler was accompanied to Independence Palace by Adm. John McCain Jr., U.S. commander in the Pacific; Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam; and Deputy U.S. Ambassador Samuel Berger.

Wheeler and McCain are on a four-day tour of Vietnam to assess the lull and the battlefield situation. They were expected to discuss with President Thieu the prospects for further withdrawals of American troops beyond the 25,000 now being pulled out.

The fight near Tay Ninh flared Friday morning when U.S. troops ran into an enemy force of unknown size, a U.S. headquarters communique said.

The fight was the biggest involving American forces anywhere in the country since U.S. 1st Infantry Division troops and air strikes killed 32 enemy in virtually the same area July 12.

The B52s were called in for follow-up raids against enemy forces as they pulled back from the fight. Two raids were carried out later Friday and another early today.

The bomber attacks around Tay Ninh and strikes directed nearby Black Virgin Mountain are part of a U.S. effort to squelch the growing enemy threat to Tay Ninh City. Although some U.S. sources said they believed the threat had eased in recent days, a total of nine B52 missions have been flown in Tay Ninh since early Thursday.

Record Shark Turnout in the Pacific

ABOARD THE USS HORNET (AP) — Recovery crewmen rehearsing the Apollo 11 pickup in the Pacific are encountering more sharks than in any previous spacecraft recoveries.

Because of this, the carrier Hornet will launch a 26-foot wooden whaleboat with armed sailors to protect the spacemen and the recovery swimmers.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials agree that the number of sharks exceeds previous splashdowns.

The sharks have damaged some equipment, but have made no menacing moves toward swimmers.
